Sermon Recap

We are all treasure hunters of sorts. We dedicate ourselves to finding praise/affirmation, approval, social status, security, control, a sense of importance or other treasures we feel we lack. In Matt 6, Jesus has something to say about treasure hunting. Jesus taught His audience that they first needed to see what true treasure is (Matt 6:22–23). In the middle of a discussion about materialism, possessions, and greed, Jesus indicated that those vices were actually a problem of how we see things. "The eye is the lamp of the body. So, if your eye is healthy, your whole body will be full of light, but if your eye is bad, your whole body will be full of darkness." We are all in danger of becoming blinded to our own materialism and not seeing what is truly important, the true treasure in heaven that we can enjoy forever.

We not only need to see the true heavenly treasure, but we need to seek that true treasure (Matt 6:19–21). Jesus called His followers to move beyond seeking to serving heavenly treasure (Matt 6:24). Both God and materialism call us to dedicate our entire beings to serving them. You cannot serve both God and materialism at the same time.

As we saw last week in Luke 12, one way to break the power of materialism over us is to give generously. In the Old Testament, when the harvest began, the people would bring the best of their first fruits to the Temple/Tabernacle as an offering. The practice was an acknowledgement that all they had was from God. He was the great provider. He was their security. He was their livelihood. He was their treasure. They always gave first to God. But the people were also instructed to leave the corners of their fields unharvested so that the poor and downtrodden in the community could come and find food. They gave to God first and they also gave to the community. Are you giving the best of your first fruits to God? A tithe of 10% or more? Having 90% of our money God's way is better than having 100% our way. Are you also giving to the community?

Jesus is the greatest Treasure hunter of all, and He came to find us as His treasured possession. He paid everything He had to purchase us. We see, seek, and serve the true treasure because the true treasure has given His life in seeking us.
